This summer, the 7th Annual Back 2 School Tour brought barrier-free back-to-school resources to 14,600+ community members — West End Atlanta, Little Haiti, Miami, South Central LA, Venice Beach, the Bronx, and Gary, Indiana, where we showed up for families living without power. No ID required. No forms. No cost. Every event was shaped by the community it served. 190+ partner organizations showed up. 35+ elected offices engaged. And 350+ volunteers didn't just distribute backpacks — they cleaned beaches, staffed tables, and walked families to the resources they needed.

This is what community infrastructure looks like when you build it together.

WHEN PARENTS KNOW THEIR POWER, COMMUNITIES MOVE.

SEPT 17, 19, 24

Five free workshops. Five Ánimo campuses. Remaining workshops Sept 17, 19, and 24. Financial literacy, college and career readiness, parent advocacy — three hours, Spanish and English translation, free childcare, food included, raffles with resource giveaways. Families leave with more than knowledge: loaded backpacks, Baby2Baby diaper packs, body care, food staples, books, and two $50 gift cards per school — unrestricted dollars, because families decide. Over $50,000 in resources across five campuses. In partnership with Green Dot Public Schools, Thrivent, LOMI, Earth of LA, and Building College Success.

A City United
ONE ROOM. ONE LOS ANGELES. SEVEN YEARS.

One room. One Los Angeles. One Giving Tuesday where we all show up together — for seven years of impact, locally and nationally. This year we're celebrating what community-rooted work actually looks like: from the Crenshaw to Venice Beach, from Atlanta to Miami to the Bronx. Crisis response when families are on their knees. School partnerships that meet kids where they are. A Relief Hub that's still open because relationships last. Every dollar funds the three pillars: Crisis & Disaster Stabilization, School & Youth Stability, Community Health & Resource Access. We're building for permanence — not one-off events, but trusted organizations that stay, listen, and build what communities actually need.
