From West End Atlanta to Little Haiti, from South Central to Venice Beach to the Bronx — and this month, Gary, Indiana, where families were living without power — the 7th Annual Back 2 School Tour met 14,600+ of our neighbors exactly where they were. No ID, no forms, no cost. Just fully loaded backpacks, resources families actually asked for, and 350+ volunteers who also cleaned beaches, staffed tables, and walked families to what they needed. 190+ partners and 35+ elected offices stood with us.

FIVE WORKSHOPS. FIVE CAMPUSES. ZERO COST.

SEPT 17, 19, 24

When parents know their power, communities move forward. This September we're hosting five free workshops across five Ánimo campuses (remaining workshops Sept 17, 19, and 24) — financial literacy, college and career pathways, and how to advocate for your student, explained plainly.

Come for three hours; we'll have Spanish and English translation, free childcare, food, and raffles. Every family takes home real resources — backpacks, diapers, books, food staples, and gift cards that are yours to spend, no strings. $50,000+ in resources across the five campuses, built with Green Dot Public Schools, Thrivent, LOMI, Earth of LA, and Building College Success.

▲ CITY UNITED: CELEBRATING SEVEN YEARS

On Giving Tuesday, we're bringing the whole city into one room at the Biltmore — to celebrate seven years of building alongside you, from the Crenshaw to Venice Beach, from Atlanta to Miami to the Bronx. Seven years of crisis response when families needed it most, school partnerships that meet kids where they are, and a Relief Hub that's still open because relationships last. Every dollar raised funds the three pillars: Crisis & Disaster Stabilization, School & Youth Stability, Community Health & Resource Access — building for permanence, not one-off events.
